This form can be used if you would like to try to identify a horse that you suspect is registered with the American Saddlebred Registry. You can DNA type the horse and the lab can do a search of their database for a possible match. The cost for the DNA kit is $50 and the cost of a search of the database for an exact match is $100. The Registry makes no warranty that a match will be found since it's possible that the horse was not DNA tested and so may not be in the database.

Note that, if the lab is able to identify the horse and if it is registered, you will still need to go through the transfer of ownership process in order to obtain a registration certificate in your ownership. We can provide you with contact information for the current recorded owner so that you can ask him/her to assist with updating the chain of ownership. If you are unable to obtain the signature of the recorded owner then ASR Rules require a court order indicating that ownership has legally passed to you. If you are unable to obtain the registration certificate, ASR rules require a notarized affidavit along with four color photos and a $50 affidavit fee.

* 3% Processing fee will be added to all ASR credit card transactions.
